The emblem of Washington University is derived from three sources: the coat of arms of George Washington, the official seal of the University, and the emblem of Louis IX of France, after whom the City of St. Louis is named. The three stars and the two horizontal bands signify Washington, the open book signifies University, and the fleur de lis signifies St. Louis. The stars and stripes are also used to form the United States flag. The emblem may therefore be read: Washington University, St. Louis, U.S.A.

The Apparent Rules of Bridge

1. Pick up your cards as dealt. You will be ready to bid ahead of the others.
2. When you have a poor hand, signal immediately by saying, "Who the Hell dealt this mess?"
3. If you get a poor partner, keep score yourself; you've got to have some advantage.
4. Lead from your own hand or dummy, as convenient.
5. Never hurry. Try several cards on a trick until you are sure which one will do the work.
6. Occasionally ask what is trump. It will show you are interested in the game.
7. Trump your partner's ace — and cinch the trick.
8. Walk around the table when you are dummy and look at the other hands. Tell them what cards are good and how many tricks they can take if they play right.
9. Always ask your partner why he didn't return your lead; this will remind him to lead it next time.
10. Don't try to remember the rules. It is too confusing.
11. Always explain your plays, particularly when set. It shows your card knowledge.
12. Talk about other subjects during the game. It makes for good fellowship.
13. Claim all the honors — you might get away with it.
14. Eat chocolate caramels or other adhesive candy while playing. It keeps the cards from skidding.
15. After the third round lay your hand on the table and claim the rest of the tricks; you may not have them, but it's much easier to play with all the cards on the table!

Freshman Camp

Since 1982 Freshman Camp has successfully introduced many Wash U students to our college community. Freshman Camp was originally started on our campus in the 1930's through the Campus Y. This program lasted for about 15 years but was then discontinued until 1982. The WU Camp is based on the Univ. of Toledo model. It is open to the whole freshman class. Students who anticipate having transition problems have found this camp experience to be very helpful. The program is structured through workshops and activities creating important aspects for an interwoven group or university.

Activities Fair

For 1985 the activities fair, sponsored by OSA, was held on August 30, in Bowles plaza from 3-5 p.m. Every campus organization was welcome to set up a table and display its wares to attract new members; and many did from the chess club to the skydiving society to the slightly more serious Young Democrats or College Republicans. Several organizations went to great lengths to attract prospective members. The Cheerleaders wore bright uniforms and gave away pom-poms while ROTC rappelled off Karl Umrath Hall and the Homecoming Committee surrounded their table with bright balloons. But most displays were not as elaborate, just friendly people willing to answer questions. The information gained by students at this activity was just as vital as anything learned in class, for, while college life is comprised of class and work, its extracurricular activities are just as important. It is for the support of these activities that the fair is held each year.

1. Lea Hackleman of the Women's Resource Center points out that if needed, the bathroom is over there.
2. Kathy Anderson and Heidi Jenkins of the ROTC display all that you can be.
3. Here is Alex Douglas from the Amature Radio Club with a big 10-4.
4. Mark from the Outing Club makes a point about high adventure.
5. Nelly Marciano and Chris Ryan celebrate in the spirit of homecoming.
6. Students representing Pycchka pose behind their beautiful banner.

There are many choice spots on campus to sit back, relax, and take a well deserved break. On a nice day many can be seen playing Frisbee, tanning, and just hanging out. Students take advantage of their time outside and combine the sunshine with things that must get done: studying and eating. The comforting atmosphere, along with the eloquence of the surrounding buildings, adds much to the overall setting.

The Underpass

This has been one of the biggest and best years yet for the Gargoyle Committee. Some of this year's highlights were: We-Can-Make-You- Laugh, a comedy show with active audience participation; Washington University Night: a Showcase of Talent, a coffeehouse spotlighting our own school's talented students and faculty; mini-concerts with Adrian Belew and also with the Reducers in conjunction with the Concert Committee; and the Hands Across America Benefit Concert and Hands Around Wash. U., wonderful events which showed everyone involved that W.U. does care about the homeless and the hungry. The Gargoyle Committee joined with many campus groups such as Concert Committee, Thurtene, Airband, Greek Week Committee, Homecoming, Cultural Celebration, SU, COMMUNITY, Campus Y, and Alpha Phi Omega to produce quality entertainment events.

The ten person committee with advisor Susan Burke, plans each Wednesday Night Coffeehouse, Thursday Night Dancing, and any special events to provide the W.U. community with music, dancing, fun, and hopefully a little education. The Gargoyle is the perfect place to meet friends, hear great music, and generally relax from demanding academics.

1. Everyone packs into the gallery during a Gargoyle sponsored party.
2. This is the place to be when you feel like dancing.
3. Sheila O'Laughlin and Walter Lewis sit back to enjoy the music at Wednesday Night Coffeehouse.
4. Dancin'! Dancin'! Dancin'!

Thursday Night

On April 11 & 12, the Washington University community came together to show that they care about the nation's poor. On Friday, 1,650 Washington University students, faculty and administration joined hands in a 1.2 mile human chain around main campus in an effort to raise awareness about the problems of America's poor and to raise money. In addition to the chain a benefit concert was held on Saturday featuring — Diamond Lion (consisting of Wash U students), Blank Space, Be Vision, and Big Fun.

The "Hands Around Wash U" activities were the kick off events in the St. Louis area for the May 25, "Hands Across America". According to Hands Across officials, Wash U was the first university in the nation to form a human chain to combat hunger.

"Hands Around Wash U" was organized by four major groups: The Gargoyle Committee, Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity, Campus Y/POCA, and Student Union. The chairpersons of the Hands Across events at Wash U were, Tim Mellett and Dianne Stober.

1. Chancellor Danforth joins the chain in front of the Brookings Arch.
2. Diamond Lion plays at the benefit concert
3. Lou Stark, Faith Maddy and Sue Burke join the line as it passes through Monsanto
4. Tim Mellett lets loose with the crowd at the benefit concert.

Homecoming '85

As the end of August approached signs of Homecoming '85 begin to slowly appear. Little men with firecrackers begin to show their faces on bulletin boards and walls reminding everyone to "Celebrate." That was the theme for Homecoming '85: Celebrate, and that we did. The festivities began Friday, October 4, with everyone's favorite sport, pizza eating in the Mallinckrodt Gallery. Later that evening, the Bonfire was held in the swamp. Zip Rzeppa spoke to the assembled students by firelight and was followed by the coaches of varsity swimming, tennis and basketball and of course Chancellor Danforth. Afterwards and throughout the night, float building went on in Wohl parking lot. Grand Marshall Lou Brock, a St. Louis Baseball Cardinal and recently elected member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, supervised the parade.

Saturday morning activities led off with a parade. The route ran from Wohl parking lot onto Big Bend, down Wydown and eventually into Brookings parking lot. Students rode their floats or dressed as clowns for the event. The Kappa's and Kappa Sig's took the award for top float followed by Pi Phi-Sigma Chi and Umrath-Rubelman. The next stop for celebrating students was the tailgating party, a peculiar event where revelers gather at the back of parked cars to eat, drink and generally be merry. And finally there was the football game versus Colorado College. To top off Homecoming '85 the Bears soundly defeated them. After the victory students settled in for a good evening of partying in Wohl and the Rat to end Homecoming on the correct note: CELEBRATING.

1. Let the parade begin!
2. Can you read it? It says CELEBRATING.
3. The Alpha Chi's and Sig Ep's get ready to celebrate Hawaiian style.
4. Told you we could make a train from cardboard, powered with good ol' fashioned hot air.
5. Praise thee our celebration goddess.
6. Here is Nelly Ann Marcano dressed in her true colors.

A Celebration

Hey, let's have a WILD time. This statement can be heard on many college campuses, but during the weeks preceding Friday, September 6, it had a more significant meaning. WILD referred to the Walk-In-Lay-Down theater, a biannual event on Wash U's campus. The festivities began long before the band started to play as people began arriving in the Quad early Friday morning to stake out prime spots for the evening's main event. Dorms, Greeks, and groups of friends spent the entire day working in shifts, around classes of course, to reserve their spots. In 1985 WILD consisted of both a musical and visual display with Pure Prairie League coming on stage at 8:00 pm, followed by the ever popular movie Fast Times at Ridgemont High.

1. Pizza, a cold drink, and a suntan; what else does a guy need? Mark Clayton
2. Merle Hamburger gives Lauren Jansen a backrub in the sunshine.
3. Hey, don't say anything, the pool isn't ready so we're creating our own fun. Lance Cohen, Woody Seidefield, Jonathon Shaw, and Mike Kaplan

Walk-In-Lay-Down

March 20 we may have been the first day of spring, but students didn't go WILD until April 25th! Breaking in the evening was Jakes' Legg followed by the featured stars, Dickie Betts and Greg Allman. Frisbee players and picnickers abounded in the quad. As the sun's lights dimmed, and evening rolled on to the scene, old friendships were renewed. Cheech and Chong were "Up In Smoke" as a very contented and tired crowd wound its way home in the early morning hours.

1. Joe Knobbe, Samir Burshan, and Molly Rios enjoy a cool Busch in the hot sun.
2. Alex Douglas: Would you like that well done or rare?
3. Jennifer, Ben, Halle, and Sandy: They're making a . . . "lean four"?
4. How's the tan? 1960 Hatchet

FALL & SPRING

- 1 New Edition — dancing for their "Candy Girls."

- 7 Sheila E. getting ready for a glamorous life.

Air Band

Q: What do you get when you take a muscular dystrophy fund-raiser and then add music, dancing, lip-syncing, acting, and Francis Gym packed with over twelve hundred enthusiastic spectators?

A: AIR BAND:

On February 1, 1986, the third annual Air Band finals took place, raising over $2,000 for muscular dystrophy. "Once in a Lifetime" by The Talking Heads won the blue ribbon, while "Come on Eileen" by Dexy's Midnight Runners" placed second. "Count Me Out" by New Edition, another outstanding performance, came in third.

This year zillions of people flocked to St. Louis to view or take part in the Washington University Engineer's Weekend, April 4-6. (Everyone but David Letterman that is). An extravaganza of both oddball and serious acts made the Friday night talent show a great way to kick off the weekend activities. A volley ball tournament (which included four faculty teams and eight student teams) provided a little physical fun. During the Saturday afternoon banquet, outstanding students and professors were recognized for their superior performances. Night-time brought out the partiers for an Engineer's Weekend bash in the Gargoyle.

Then came the moment for which everyone had been waiting. The renowned Egg Drop Competition, the premier event of Engineer's Weekend, tested the wits of student engineers to devise contraptions that would safely deliver raw eggs from the 11th floor balcony of Shepley Hall to the hard pavement below.

A picnic capped off the weekend of fun, fun, and more fun. So the moral of the story is:

DON'T SEND ALL THE KING'S HORSES AND ALL THE KING'S MEN.
SEND AN ENGINEER!

Thurtene

1. Kissing Booth — 1953 Hatchet

The Thurtene Carnival was without a doubt the biggest event of the Wash U school year. The University and surrounding community really pulled together to make the carnival a success. Nearly every student became involved in at least one aspect of the fair, and many spent a hectic week preparing and were 'forced' to ignore their studies for the two days of the carnival itself.

This year's carnival drew larger crowds than any in its fifty-two year history of sponsorship by Thurtene, the Junior Men's Honorary. It retained the distinction of being the largest student-run carnival in the country.

Midway games of chance and skill, rides, shows, and a wide array of unusual food made the fair a wonderful escape for people of all ages, but what really made the carnival worthwhile was the cause that it supported: the Gateway Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America. By giving up their time and energy, Wash U students were able to help those less fortunate than themselves, while also providing a fun and lasting contribution to the culture of the community.

Cultural Celebration is a week of events, both academic and entertaining, that bring light to the rich cultural diversity of W.U. students and the St. Louis community. In its second year, this celebration hoped to kindle an appreciation for the differences and, more importantly, the similarities between cultures.

Fiesta Latina

SPECIAL
99¢

On Saturday, November 2, Cojones sponsored the 8th Fiesta Latina. Cojones is a social club mainly composed of Latin members. Fiesta Latina (which means Latin Party), a tradition at Wash. U., is their major event. Students from St. Louis University and the St. Louis community were invited to dance to Latin and American Music. For one night the Gargoyle was turned into a Latin American town by the Spanish Plaza decorations and Latin American food.

1. Rodney Dewald, Chris Hammond and Tony Austin express their enthusiasm for the ethnic festivity.
2. Leticio Alvarez and Debbie Brown sample Latin American drinks while practicing their Spanish.
3. Students, unable to control themselves any longer, do the Conga.

Washington's Birthday

February 17-21 was George Washington's Birthday Celebration. This week of events began on Monday with a ski trip sponsored by SFPB. On Tuesday Dean of Student Affairs Harry Kisker passed out discount coupons good for Washington's Day at Fats Down Under. This took place on Wednesday with the day's special being a cherry pie sundae. On Thursday special cups were used at the Rat and George Washington made a guest appearance on the main campus. Friday was the big party at the Gargoyle. The band voted #1 in St. Louis by the Riverfront Times, The Ralph Butler Band, performed. Other highlights of the party included a cherry pie eating contest: first prize went to Sigma Alpha Mu, second to Eliot, and third to Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The Performing Arts Area of Washington University allows students from all divisions to take elective courses in Drama and Dance, as well as offering a Performing Arts major and minors in Dance and Drama.

The Dance Division emphasizes dance as an art form, concentrating on modern dance and preparing students for work in choreography, performance, education, and therapy. The St. Louis Repertory Dancers, the performing group of the Dance Division, gives students a chance to learn about these aspects of dance firsthand, as well as affording the opportunity to work with guest and resident artists.

The Drama Division gives students an opportunity to learn about acting, directing, writing, and production, as well as history of the theater and exposure to literature. Many production of well-known and little known works, as well as several productions of student plays afford the opportunity for experience in every aspect of theater.

Organizations

AIESEC

AIESEC is an international organization with far-reaching benefits. It gives the opportunity to travel overseas on a trainee exchange program and get paid for doing it. AIESEC also develops communication skills through discussions of the program with St. Louis executives, and offers a chance to interact with people from abroad. The local committee here at WU strives to promote international awareness and business understanding through its various committees, corporate marketing projects, receptions, public relations and exchange students.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega is a national coed-service fraternity. Here on the Washington University campus and community, the Alpha Phi Chapter has always placed service to the community, campus and the nation as our most important priority. On campus we are extremely active assisting the operations of the quarterly campus blood drives. We are currently involved in the ambitious project of coordinating all phases of one blood drive. Our fraternity also participates in the many phoneathons held at the Alumni House. It should not be overlooked that we are a fraternity as well. This affords many students in the Washington University Community with an opportunity to participate in service while gaining a sense of brotherhood with their fellow students.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB

"What a Ham!" you say? That's right, this is a well-done, meaty story. The Amateur Radio club is cooking again after one year off the air. The one-thousand watt station (WZEV) is located in the Cupples II attic. Activities of the club include, two-way contacts with other ham operators (I thought they were called butchers), station demonstrations, emergency communications, message handling, and of course, assisting novice ham's in getting their professional licenses.

So if you get tired of the same old routine, curious, or just hungry, stop by and visit a bunch of old hams and they might even show you their new antenna.

UNDERGRADUATE ANTHROPOLOGY GUILD

"No, not ough, it's U-Ag!" Yes, the UAG, now in its third successful year of activity, is an organization that was created to promote enthusiasm and unity among students majoring or interested in the field of anthropology. In the past, the UAG has sponsored and hosted speakers, films and slide shows. Highlights include field trips as well student-faculty parties and potluck dinners.

Association of Black Students

The association of Black Students (ABS) is a black social, cultural and political organization. It is funded by student activity fees, and maintains an office and a lounge in the Women's Building. ABS plans and executes many programs oriented towards the unique needs of black students. In addition to the social and cultural events, ABS provides an organizational vehicle for black students to express their collective political opinions on and off campus.

Association of Korean Students

The Association of Korean Students in a closely-knit student organization founded in 1985 in the belief that all Korean students and students of Korean descent should enhance their understanding of their heritage. Korean culture, over 4000 years old, distinctive in thought, literature, music, art, and dance, has made significant contributions to Asia and the world.

The goals of AKS include sharing our knowledge of Korea and its culture, encouraging the introduction of a course on Korea in the Asian Studies Program and expressing our appreciation of the United States through a program of community service.

Campus Y

From A-W the Campus Y has it all! The Campus Y, a branch of the St. Louis YWCA and the YMCA, sponsored programs that ranged from working with troubled adolescents to weatherizing homes for the elderly. All programs operated by the Campus Y are created and administered by student volunteers. Some participants tutored elementary and secondary school students, volunteered in hospitals or worked with abused and neglected children.

Campus Y not only develops community awareness and assistance, but they create programs that are of interest to students. The "Y", as it is commonly referred to, operated campus-based programs such as a pre-orientation Freshman Camp (complete with upperclassmen counselors), and activities to increase awareness among the variety of races and religions found at WU.

Cheerleaders

"Two bits, four bits, six bits, a buck,
Come on Cheerleaders, give us a . . . 'nother cheer!"

And that's exactly what they did, all year. The cheerleaders are devoted to promoting school spirit and supporting the athletic teams through pep rallies and homecoming activities. The group of twelve, six males and six females, could always be found at football and basketball games. They provide support and interest in all campus sports and help maintain WU's enthusiastic school spirit.

College Politcal Groups

The two main politcal organizations on campus were the College Republicans and the Young Democrats. Both were dedicated to developing Democratic thought and promoting student activism. They realized these goals by providing speakers, encouraging research, and creating an agenda for political action concerning issues important to students and America in general. They are involved in party acitivites at all levels — national, state, local, and campus. Voter registration, canvassing, headquarters work, debates, literature design and distribution, research and public speaking were just a few of their activities.

Community

Concert Committee

The Washington University Concert Committee has had a successful year. In conjunction with Student Union, the concert committee has brought several groups to the Washington University campus. They include: General Public, UB40, and the Violent Femmes. For the first time, the committee was able to organize and successfully run two performances in the fieldhouse. The concert committee would like to extend a thank you to the administration and our advisor, Sue Burke.

The Concert Committee has brought quality music to the Washington University campus and provided entertainment for the entire student body. The concert committee hopes to continue to be an integral part of the Washington University campus.

Filmboard

Washington University's Filmboard, the student-run film organization, shows movies every night of the week throughout the semester in Brown Hall. Our schedule offers something for everyone: classic American films on Mondays and Tuesdays, foreign films on Wednesdays and Thursdays, as well as feature and midnight films on weekends. We also brings free premiere screenings to area theatres. The membership chooses the films we show and works in various house positions. We encourage everyone's input for our film selections.

Gargoyle Committee

The Gargoyle Committee is a student run organization which programs a variety of university-wide entertainment activities. These activities include Wednesday night coffee-houses, Thursday night dancing, noon music in Bowles plaza, and other events such as Air Band, comedy acts, and an occasional movie. The Gargoyle Committee also actively co-sponsors such annual events as the Mardi Gras Party, Homecoming, Fiesta Latina, and the Senior Class Party.

HUNGARIAN PASTRY CLUB PRESERVES ANCIENT ART

The Washington University Hungarian Pastry Club was founded in 1946 with the goal of preserving and furthering the art of baking Hungarian pastries. This active group is continually testing and trying new culinary methods to improve their pastry art. During the year several group projects served the dual purpose of creating unity within the organization and earning money to purchase the raw materials for their product. Selling Hungarian pastries on Fraternity Row and at the new Wohl Center and participation in Thurtene Carnival were some of the club's projects. In conjunction with the Campus Y the members of the group are actively involved in attempting to smuggle more Hungarian pastry secrets through the Iron Curtain.

The In-Town Students Association was formed with the goal of integrating community students in Washington University's diverse social life. To this end we organize or participate in events that we hope will bring commuter and other students together. Events last year included building a homecoming float, a progressive dinner, and a booth at Thurtene Carnival. The group maintains two lounges on the third floor of the Women's Building.

The Islamic Society of WU was formed in the Fall Semester of 1985, as a group of International. Primarily formed to encourage and support those special interests and activities of Islamic students, it has brought awareness of Islam "as a way of life." Activities have included cultural, social and educational programs for the benefit of all in the university and its community. These events included participating in the Cultural Celebration and the Islamic-Jewish-Christian Dialogue.

As co-sponsors of the first "Islamic Lecture," the society featured Seyyed Hussain Nasv who discussed "Islamic thought in the contemporary world" at an Assembly Series last spring. The purpose of this lecture was to present an intellectual awareness of Islam, which encompasses religion, social and political ethics as a way of life in its vast geographical diversity.

Outing Club

Lions and tigers and bears, Oh, no! The WU Outing Club was organized in 1971 in order to provide members of the WU Community with an increased access to outdoor recreation areas in Missouri and Illinois. Presently it functions to organize outdoor activities and provide equipment to its members. Activities include backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing, spelunking, bicycling, cross-country skiing, sky-diving, and occasionally, film or slide presentations or training workshops. The outings are planned for weekends and semester breaks. Members may check out equipment such as tents, sleeping bags, backpacks, and climbing gear. Membership, however, is not required in order to participate in Outing Club activities. In fact, any student, faculty member, or administrator is encouraged to lead trips or at least participate in them, and even become an officer of the club.

AFROTC — 1953 Hatchet

Air Force ROTC students at WU are of the highest caliber. In addition to the leadership responsibilities given to them in the Cadet Corps, you'll find that AF ROTC cadets tend to be leaders in all facets of campus life. They form an integral part of one of the country's highest-rated AFROTC detachments.

And the WU AFROTC is more than just a training corps. It's friendship strengthened by working together at the Thurtene Carnival, intramural teams, and many philanthropic projects. The sterling characters of the cadets shine to make the organization as a whole a high-spirited, industrious, intelligent, and ambitious group of future Air Force officers.

Society for Creative Anachronisms

The Society for Creative Anachronism — House Bear's Haven is the WU student chapter of the national corporation. SCA is a group devoted to the study and re-creation of aspects of the Middle Ages (500-1600A.D.), including fighting, dancing, crafts, and feasting.

Darrel Magon, Leon Brumfield, Jeffrey Gathe, Shayla Moody, Danny Underwood, Brentta Mitchell, Stephen Larkin.

The Society of Black Engineers (SOBE) is WU chapter of the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE). The activities of the group are wide and varied. They include a tutoring service for inter/intra group members within the engineering school, plant tours and seminars to learn what is being offered by area companies within the engineering field. We co-hosted our Region V Conference/Job Fair along with UMR & UMC allowing our members to have one on one contact with major corporations such as IBM, McDonnell Douglas, Monsanto, etc. We held our annual banquet dinner to award merits for achievement to members, to recognize faculty and contributing faculty.

Society of Black Engineers

SWE

The Society of Women Engineers consists of a group of students from all disciplines of the engineering field. Our society is not limited to female membership and, in fact, some years we have nearly as many men members as women. One of the major concerns of our organization is to bring students studying engineering into contact with professionals who are willing to help us better understand what the corporate environment is like. Women from the local professional SWE chapter in the St. Louis area help us in this respect by holding panel discussions with us and participating in our regular meetings.

During the academic year our group has been rebuilding and reestablishing ties with the professors and the other societies of the Engineering School. We have held a resume writing seminar along with special topic discussions at our regular meetings. Our society room is once again available for studying and other uses after two years of inactivity. One of the highlights of the year was a panel discussion with the Professional St. Louis SWE chapter. We also held the annual "End of the Year" picnic near the end of April.

Student Life Staff—1905

Student Life is the student run and staffed independent newspaper of Washington University. Twice a week, Student Life publishes the news, arts, features, and sports that reflect the interests of the WU community — students, faculty, administration, and staff.

Student Life strives to retain a vigorous and reasoned editorial voice. We are in the business of publicizing both the university's popular and controversial decisions and procedures with the steadfast goal of informing the WU population of happenings in their community. Student Life, one of the few independent student publishing enterprises in the country, carries everything from indepth investigative reports to off-beat arts reviews.

Action Against Apartheid was created to inform the WU community about the apartheid situation in South Africa. They built a shanty in the Quad to promote awareness of the divestment efforts taking place by companies in business there, including WU.

The Air Band Steering Committee provided the leadership and organization necessary to produce the Air Band Competition. With proceeds donated to Cystic Fibrosis, the annual competition, as always, was a very successful event. The staff's responsibilities included everything from finding the location and the judges, to providing the prizes. It takes a tremendous amount of organization and they did a fabulous job!

American Campus Eagles was a service-oriented group of WU Eagle Scouts. Members worked with the St. Louis Area Scouting council on projects to improve the quality of scouting.

Architecture Student Council represented the interests of the Architecture students in all areas of concern dealing with architectural education and school social life. They also sponsored Bauhaus Ball.

Ashoka undertook various social, cultural and athletic activities to bring Indian culture to WU. Their list of events included Indian moirees, dinners, intramural sports and cricket. They also took part in the Cultural Festival and sponsored a food booth at Thurtene Carnival.

Association of 3-2 Engineers coordinated activities to help junior transfer students feel more at home in the WU community. Their events included a fall orientation, a picnic each semester, and intermural sports teams.

Black Pre-medical Association was organized in 1977. It's main purposes were to provide catalogs of health professional schools and sponsor programs that would instruct and inform the students about good study habits, employment opportunities, the application process, etc. Their two major activities were the Mound City Medical Forum, where doctors discuss their experiences, and the Medical School Workshop, when students pose questions about the medical school procedures to a panel of medical school students.

Black Senior Alliance (BSA) was organized to prepare black seniors as well as all other seniors for professional career goals. Also, the BSA serves as a resource and service organization, for all other groups on campus.

Blood Drive Committee provided the University Community with the opportunity to donate blood for the bi-state regional Red Cross. The student-run committee organized two drives each semester, each of which was three days long and collected approximately 400 pints of blood. A $50 prize was awarded to the dormitory and the fraternity or sorority which donated the most blood.

Undergraduate Business Council's purpose was to act as a link between the undergraduate business student, the faculty and the administration.

Cadenza published a magazine composed of undergraduate poetry, fiction, artwork and photography once every semester. Also, the organization works to promote the efforts of the entire undergraduate creative community at WU, and to stimulate student's awareness of contemporary art in every discipline. In the spring, Cadenza merged with Subject to Change to form the Eliot Review.

The Chess Club is just that, a club of chess players. Members ranged in skill level from novice to master. Since the club supplies boards, sets, clocks, books, and magazines, it gives anyone the opportunity to play, either informally with a group of friends or in a tournament.

Christian Student Fellowship (fondly, known as IV, the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship) was a nondenominational group with the purpose of recognizing and developing fellowships within the WU community with that spiritual dimension of life, providing opportunities for the members of the WU community to be part of organized programs that further their spiritual growths, and encouraging the WU community to examine God's word.

CIRCUIT, the Council for Inter-Religious Concerns, was dedicated to providing varied programs in order to promote active dialogue among students, faculty, and staff, so that the individuals may come to understand and respect the similarities and differences among people of diverse faiths.

Cojones-UMC, Umrath Men's Club is an intercultural organization expressing school spirit and rowdiness to the WU community. Besides promoting school spirit, it also supports athletic activities by helping the Cheerleaders in pep rallies and homecoming activities.

CSAS, Council of Students of Arts and Sciences was the student academic governing body of the College of Arts and Sciences. It was empowered to legislate on all issues directly affecting the academic interests of the students with status equal to that of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The Council presented an annual Symposium, provided a Student Academic Advising Service, and published a course Evaluation Supplement.

Emergency Support Team was a group of students that provided emergency medical care to the WU community. They offered CPR classes as well as co-sponsoring their annual Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) course in the spring.

Engineers' Council is the official student government for engineering undergraduates. The main purposes of EN Council were to serve as a liaison between student body and the University and to provide social and academic programming for engineering students. EN Council responsibilities related to academics included Undergraduate Board, Course Evaluations each semester, and the coordination of many professional society activities. In addition to hosting the Midwest Regional Engineering Student Council Conference in November, EN Council also sponsored the Lopata Classic Basketball Bash, Engineers' Week-end (featuring the famous Egg-Drop contest) and a monthly newsletter, The Ln Log (pronounced Natural Log).

Undergraduate English Association provided programming for students interested in writing poetry and fiction, composition and literature, as well as promoting interaction between students faculty.

Fine Arts Council served as the student organization of the School of Fine Arts. It functioned both as a social organization designed to build unity and cohesion among art students as well as the students' political forum. It was involved in orientation activities, student shows, and represented students views in the Art School's policy committees.

The Washington University Gaming Society (WUGS) gave gamers the chance to play against (or with) others of the same gaming interests. The Society played war games (Squad Leader, Diplomacy, etc.) and fantasy games (D & D, Cosmic Encounter, etc.).

Gatherings was the WU publication which primarily addressed Women's issues. Besides investigative and informational articles covering on-campus issues such as tenure, and sexual harassment, it published short stories, editorials, calendars, poetry and artwork. Gatherings was a forum for all political issues and creative energy concerning women.

German Club was founded by an enthusiastic group of undergraduates who wished to promote German Language, literature, and culture as well as to expand their own knowledge of it outside of a classroom setting. The club sponsored a wide range of social and cultural events including Christmas parties, afternoons at the "Rat," Umrathskellar), a concert featuring German Baroque composers, and a film series.

The Washington University Go Club was an organization dedicated to play and promote the game of Go, an Oriental strategy game. Any level of play, from beginner to advanced, was challenged. Activities included weekly meetings as well as the occasional tournament. GO for it!

The Undergraduate History Association was an organization of undergraduate history majors. UHA activities included informal student-faculty mixers, speakers, a film series, and academic and career advising.

Israel Action Committee organized cultural, educational and social events in order to further interest in, and understanding of Israel. The committee has a resource library and the annually holds the Israel Culture Fair, with speakers, movies and dancing.

Krebs Accounting Club, a student affiliate chapter of the National Association of Accountants, worked to promote interest in accounting and enhance accounting knowledge by meeting and talking with professionals and by developing worthwhile projects and speaker programs.

KWUR was WU's own radio station, featuring the best in progressive music, be it new wave, jazz, reggae, or just about anything else. Complete with a request line, this was campus radio at its best.

Pom-Pon Squad was dedicated to promoting school spirit and supporting varsity athletics. The twelve member squad participated in half-time entertainment, locker room decorating and other activities.

Pre-Law Society was geared toward the students seriously thinking about a legal career, but some of the social activities exist solely as a break from day-to-day academic tension. Introduction to the LSAT, meeting with lawyers and law students, mock trials, an annual photography sale, and the Thurtene booth are some of the activities which occur frequently on the agendas of the meetings.

Pre-Medical Society sponsored programs to benefit all pre-health professions students. Although best known for its annual faculty-student wine and cheese party, the society also sponsored a panel discussion with WU medical students to give undergraduates a chance to find out what medical school is really like. Their main project was the Annual Pre-Med Exposure Program (PEP). PEP gave a student the opportunity to spend two days with a physician one-on-one to gain some insight into a possible career in medicine.

Pro-Life Committee was a group of students and faculty members working together to inform the WU community of the importance of the right to life of the born and the unborn. The committee has published a newsletter, brought a number of speakers on campus, and sponsored two films.

Russian Club (Russika) provided an opportunity for students of Russian to get together with native speakers to experience the language in an informal setting. Activities such as Russian films, parties and dinners, featuring traditional Russian food, contributed to a better understanding of the Soviet Union.

Second Side, a political discussion club, attempted to include a moderate to conservative viewpoint while drawing a diverse range of speakers whose backgrounds range from liberal to conservative thought. Forums included topics on Apartheid in South Africa, Central America, and a Debrief of a World Student Congress.

Senior Student Association was responsible for planning events for the members of the graduating class. The major project was, of course, Commencement Week, which featured everything from a trip to Chicago to a Baseball Cardinals game. They also organize Senior Night at the Rat, and provide creative, recreational and educational programs.

Social Action Collective aimed to alert students to the possibilities of political and social change. They tried to promote the political consciousness of the university community by providing progressive perspectives through educational forums, speakers, and films.

Students for Free Choice was a group created to inform and educate the community about abortion and reproductive rights and issues. They implemented these goals by sponsoring speakers, distributing literature, holding informative debates, and generally promoting awareness of reproductive issues.

Subject to Change was a quarterly review of politics and the arts. Besides publishing the essays, fiction, poetry and artwork of undergraduate and graduate students, faculty alumni and any person who submits material, they sponsor an annual fiction competition. In the Spring, they merged with Cadenza to form the Eliot Review.

Thyrus was the student organization run by and for dance and drama students. It promoted and funded student productions and dance concerts. It was also a communication line between students and faculty. It served as a resource and information center, issuing newsletters to students informed of all dance and drama activities.

TOHO was a bimonthly magazine covering topics and events of Jewish concern around the campus.

Women's Programming Board plans, sponsors and organizes programs of special interest to women and addressing women's issues. Past programs have included panel discussions speakers, small discussion groups, workshops, rape awareness and self defense training. The women's Film Series, the Very Interesting Women Series, a craft show, Women's Art Shows, a Susan B. Anthony birthday Party and large band parties are just a sampling of their many activities.

Women's Resource Center met weekly to discuss issues of common concern to women. The Center offered a variety of services tailored to the needs of women at WU. Information and referral for vocational counseling, sexuality, rape, abortion, and professional therapy were always available.

SOCCER

The Washington University Soccer Bears had a tremendous season as they played to a 21-3 record and a second place national finish. The team's success was due to individual talent and outstanding teamwork. One of the biggest wins for the Bears came early in the season when they upset local Division II rival UMSL, 2-1. The victory came in the middle of a record setting 14 game winning streak for the Bears. Another season highlight for the Bears was defeating Wheaton College, 2-1, to win the Great Lakes Soccer Regional Championship, and at the same time setting a new school record for victories.

Six bears were named to the 1985 NSCAA All-Midwest Team: sophomore Dennis Northcott; senior John Brill; sophomore Zack Edmonds who set a school record for single assists in a season with 12; senior Tom Ogorzalek, this year's recipient of the Stephen Davis Synder Memorial Award; two-time All-American junior George Chopin, who led the Bears in scoring with 20 goals and 10 assists; and senior goalie John Konsek. Konsek posted a 0.83 goals against average while recording 7.5 shutouts. He also stopped 3 straight penalty kicks in the overtime shootout against the University of California-San Diego in the quarterfinal game. Freshmen Tom Hundelt joins the six All-Midwest players to be part of an All-Missouri Collegiate Team. Sophomore Dave Ritter was named to the 1985 Adidas Academic All-American Team. Ritter scored 8 goals and added 6 assists for the Bears. Head coach Joe Carenza Jr. was named NSCAA Midwest Coach of the Year.

Bears Frustrated By Tough Season

The 1985 Football Bears had a disappointing season record, 3-7, but continued to make progress toward rebuilding a program that has suffered through seven straight losing seasons. Along with a tough schedule, the team was frustrated by a number of injuries to key players. Head Coach, Fred Remmy, was forced to look to freshman team members to fill the vacant positions, and, according to Remmy, "they did it successfully". Although strong members have been added to the squad in recent years, the Football Bears will lose some experienced senior players next year, including quarterback, Steve Sides, and placekicker, Drew Van Horne. Sides, a three-year starter, had a record-breaking season and came within two passes of becoming the career leader in all major passing categories. Records broken by Sides include total career pass attempts, passing yardage, touchdown passes and total offense. Van Horne finished his career with 21 successful field goals, tying Lee Breaman's record for career field goal completions.

With 18 returning lettermen and 19 freshmen, the Washington University Men's and Women's Cross Country Teams started the 1985 season at the Westminster Invitational with the men finishing and the women placing second. Freshmen Derrick Peterman took first place at the meet, the first member of a Washington University men's cross country team to win an invitational meet in over five years. The women's team went on to take first place at the Millikin University Invitational while the men took second place. At the 10th annual Washington University Invitational, the men's team took fifth out of 20 teams while the women's team placed second out of 17 teams. At the Millikin University Quadrangular, Peterman and freshmen Teresa Morehead set new course records. The teams finished off the season at the NCAA Division III Midwest Regional Championships where the men and women finished ninth and eight, respectively. Head coach Charlie Gatti commented on the season: "These teams have the most potential of any I've coached. The experiences from this year will only serve to make them stronger. Our youth (four freshmen and one new sophomore in the men's top seven and two freshmen and two sophomores in the women's top five) will help us a great deal as we prepare for future seasons."

Bears Go To National Championships

The goal of the Bears at the beginning of the season, ranked ninth nationally and third in the Midwest, was to finish the season with a rating of eight or higher, which would qualify the team for the NCAA Division III national tennis championships. Steve Gilbert, head coach, believing optimistically in the philosophy you have to play the best to be the best, along with seven returning lettermen and six newcomers, accomplished the goal by completing a competitive schedule with a 19-3 season record.

Sophomore Duncan Seay, number one singles player, was outstanding during the team tournament winning three singles matches. In the individual singles and doubles championships, Seay advanced to the quarterfinals giving him a total of six tourney wins before losing to the eventual champion. Junior Joe Chamdani won an impressive match in a team competition and also advanced to the second round of the singles tournament. Senior Tim Spengler, two-time All-American, and sophomore Jim Heistrom also played excellent matches in the singles tournament.

The experience gained by the team playing at the national level can only help the returning players next season. Spengler, now with a third consecutive trip to the national championships, is the only graduating player and will no doubt be missed, yet next year is expected to be very successful.

Fifteen Victories Set Record

Ending the fall season with a 15-4 record and spring with a 8-3 record, the Bears enjoyed one of their most successful seasons to date. The fifteen victories represented a new record for most wins in a single season. According to head coach Lynn Imergoot, the team's success was due to consistent play from a team with more depth than any previous team of hers.

Co-captains Lynn Kamenir and Kim Rice led the team to their most successful season yet. Encountering a competitive schedule against tough Division III powers, Principia College and Millsaps, and a home-and-home series with DePauw University as well as, Sangamon State University and Quincy College, the team did well despite their two close 5-4 losses to Millsaps and Principia Colleges.

Junior Lori Goldberg bounced back to win eight of nine singles matches, after recovering from a knee injury she suffered in the Division III national tournament last spring. Senior Jetty Temeshy-Von-Becker and freshman Jill Rosen each finished the season with 14 singles victories. Freshman Danielle Romano recorded the team's best winning singles percentage with a mark of 8-0. The doubles team of Beth Elliott and Eileen Schiele were 12-3 with the Lynn Kamenir and Rosen duo at 11-3. The Washington University's women's tennis team is now anxiously working toward another record breaking season next year.

SWIMMING

The combination of new freshmen talent and upperclassmen experience proved to be a successful combination for the Men's Swimming and Diving Team as they swam to a 9-4 dual meet season. The men opened the season strong, proving themselves to be stiff competition for Division II powerhouse Northeast Missouri State and crushing Division I St. Louis University, 88-23. At the Washington University Invitational, the team claimed the first place team finish out of 4 teams. The men also placed third out of 6 teams at the DePauw Liberal Arts Invitational. Junior Dougin Walker earned the Most Valuable Swimmer award. Walker and junior Brian Battle were named as next year's men's captains. This year's most improved swimmer award went to senior Mike Geiger.

Although the women's team lacked the depth that the men had, their flexible lineup allowed them to claim a successful 5-5 dual meet season, their 8th consecutive .500 or better season. The Lady Bears depended on senior Megan Connell in their distance events, while senior Rachel Schine consistently added points in the sprints. Sophomore Theresa Arlotto scored the most points for the Bears while resetting three varsity records.

The team placed second at the Washington University Invitational and also placed second out of seven teams at the DePauw Invitational. Arlotto was named this season's Most Valuable Swimmer while Connell earned the Most Improved Swimmer award. Next year's captains of women's team are Arlotto and junior Clare Brennan.

Head coach Martha Tillman commented on the season of both teams: "The teams achieved more success than I realized. Everyone was pleased with the individual and team results at DePauw, making it a good season-ending meet. Every swimmer and diver did a personal best in at least one event. It was encouraging to see our group of freshmen become more involved as the season went along and really become a part of the team."

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Bears Finish With Second Straight Winning Season

Even though they had lost four starters from the previous season, the Basketball Bears still bounced their way to a 14-12 record, giving them back-to-back winning seasons for the first time since 1963-64 and 1964-65. The team accomplished this while playing one of the toughest schedules yet facing the Bears. Starting from scratch four years ago due to no intercollegiate basketball from 1971-81, the hard work and patience of both coaches and players is shown in their continued success this season.

According to head coach, Mark Edwards, the Bears were successful this year due to a team effort, with all five starters shooting fifty percent or higher from the field and strong support from the non-starting members. As the only returning starter from last season, Kevin Suiter led the Bears in scoring with 408 total points. His 88.9 free throw percentage had him ranked fifth in the nation in the final NCAA Division III regular season statistics. Brent Rueter, as point guard, led the Bears in field goal percentage, 54 percent, while also becoming the school's single season assist leader with 137. Sophomore Jon Bergman took care of the team's inside game this year, leading the team in rebounding with a 7.1 average, while Paul Jackson and Mark Sparrow shared the forward position. As a senior, Sparrow will leave as Washington University's fifth all-time scorer and second in most field goals scored with 397. Sophomore center, Jeff Unterreiner, steadily improved throughout the year finishing the season as the team's second leading rebounder with 5.4 per game. With all five starters returning next year, the Basketball Bears may be able to improve on this year's 14-12 record. The outlook seems good for a successful 1986-87 season.

Record Setting Season

The bears had a fantastic season breaking 13 single season team records and winning a school-record 14 games. Last year their running game with a tough pressing defense set the school record at 13-5. This year the bears reached a new high with the 14-6 record by utilizing their depth and speed in a fullcourt defense. "We are not a tall team, so it is important for us to cause turnovers before the opposition is able to set up and run their offensive schemes", said Bears' head coach Gaye Kinnett, who has been with the Bears since basketball was introduced in 1979 to W.U. women.

Starting Junior Debbie Braun contributed significantly in the assist and steal department, increasing her career numbers to 300 assists and 204 steals. The third-year starting forward, Junior Jacquie Welkener, averaged 17.1 points per game, becoming the Bears' all-time leading scorer and the first player in school history to top the 1,000-point mark with 1,014 points. The Bears' only graduating starter is four-year letterwinner Kathy Fagan who finishes her career as the school's sixth all-time leading scorer with 431 points. Fagan contributed 7.2 points and 5.6 rebounds per game in her final season. Two freshmen, Karen VanMeter and Amy Wiegner, played key roles in the success of this year's team. VanMeter averaged 15.7 points per game and was the Bears' leading rebounder with an 8.0 average. Wiegner, who says a majority of her action coming off the bench, was the teams fourth leading scorer with a 7.6 average. Both Wiegner and VanMeter were named to University of Chicago's Coed Classic all-tournament team.

The freshmen jelled well with the upperclassmen to produce a memorable season setting numerous records. The Bears also enjoyed a seven game winning streak, the longest in their seven year history and a victory over Millikin University, last years NCAA Division III third place champion. After posting the 14-6 record this season, the Bears, now with three straight winning seasons, have successfully achieved their goal of being a consistent winner at the NCAA Division III level, according to Kinnett. Clearly the Bears plan on continuing their successes next season.

ATHLETIC HIGHLIGHTS

BASEBALL

The Washington University baseball team fell short of obtaining their goal of a .500 season with a 21-24 record. The loss of 11 lettermen, 4 of which were starting infielders, hindered the Bears in learning their fifth consecutive winning season. The teams' fielding percentage fell to .909 from last year's .945. This result was expected with the change to an almost entirely new infield. A real surprise to the team was the performance of the returning pitching staff. The team's earned run average jumped from 4.59 to 8.22. Head coach Rick Larsen commented, "Our pitchers, I think, tried too hard to win this year. Some of them wanted to win so much they lost a lot of their control."

A highlight of the season was the Bears' excellent performance at the plate, tying last year's record batting average of .317. The Bears also recorded some excellent individual performances. Sophomore Cornel Foggie batted .440 with 66 hits and 59 runs scored. Foggie also set the record for doubles in a season with 14. Senior Fred Webb established career records with 177 hits, 27 home runs, 160 runs batted in, 40 doubles, 123 runs scored, 516 at bats, and 159 games played. Senior Al Caldwell and freshman Geoff Golub also recorded top batting averages. Caldwell with a career-high of .345 and Golub with a .471. Golub also scored 24 runs in the leadoff position. Foggie earned this season's Most Valuable Player award. Golub was named the Rookie of the Year and senior Matt Feigenbaum was given the team's Outstanding Pitcher award. Junior Joe Collins earned the team's Most Improved Player award.

The Teams On Track

Coaches and athletes anticipated their best season in several years with promising teams and also completion of the outstanding track and field facilities. The key to this success proved to be balance with at least one participant in almost every collegiate event being the strong point in both teams. Charlie Gatti, head women's coach, and Ted Gibbons, head men's coach, were pleased with the way everyone pulled together early in the season trying different events, discovering the athletes who could perform in other events than the ones they were currently involved with. This increased the team's total effectiveness.

The women's stiffest challenges of the year were present at the Washington University Women's Invitational. The meet was successful setting five school records and 13 personal bests. The men's squad faced the same stiff challenges at the Ecumenical Invitational and they successfully finished sixth among 12 exceptional teams.

The Bears had the potential to qualify for nationals in 11 events. Especially, sophomore Marvin Williams who evidenced his own outstanding potential in four events along with other near qualifiers — Renee Graham, Marty McClean, Angela Panetta, Derrick Peterman, and Mike Ritter who barely missed the required times or distances. Barely missing the mark also were the men's 400-meter relay team and 1600-meter relay team by five-tenths of a second and by 2.2 seconds respectively. However, the Battling Bears did establish 10 school records and most of these athletes will be returning next season to continue improving their records.

WRESTLING

Washington University was represented by junior Mario Pyles at the 1986 NCAA Division III National Wrestling Championships. After winning the 134-pound weight class at the Midwest Regional tournament, Pyles advanced to the National Championships. Winning and losing two matches, Pyles wrestled through four rounds coming within one match of placing in the top eight and becoming Washington Universities first wrestling All-American.

GOLF

The Washington University Golf Team had one of their best seasons ever with a 3-0 dual meet record and with a third, a second and two first place finishes in their last four tournaments. The Bears claimed wins for the second straight year when they finished first in their own invitational, the Battling Bear Classic, and first at the University of Missouri-Rolla Best Ball Invitational. The Bears came from behind at the Rolla Invitational to edge out the host school and Westminster College. The Bears also finished third out of 10 teams at the Rose-Hulman Invitational and second out of 8 NCAA teams, overall third out of 18 teams, at the Missouri Intercollegiate Tourney. Junior Jonathan Lee led the team this season, winning three medals. Newcomer senior Kent Hunold, Simpson College's most valuable golfer, won two medals. Mike Hickman, John Briski, and Dave Becker all were one-time medalists. Head coach Chris Gianoulakis commented on the season: "Team commitment was the reason why we had our best season ever since I've been coaching here. The results showed that this group of golfers improved as the season went along — third, second, first and first place finishes in our last four tournaments. John Briski closed his collegiate career with a great round of golf which helped us win the Rolla tourney."

Even though the Washington University volleyball team fell short of their hoped for .500 season with a .400 mark, they finished the season with some impressive statistics that indicated a successful season. The team won their first invitational in four years at the Greenville college Tournament. Overall the team doubled their block points from 521 in 1984 to 1098. They also increased their number of block solos and block assists.

We Have An Athletic Complex

"I'm getting an athletic complex" was a common phrase in the early 1980's. It has since spread into epidemic proportions— "We've (all) got an athletic complex" now.

Plans to build a new sports and recreation center began in 1977, when a local architectural firm was asked to do a feasibility study. The proposal to build a new athletic facility coincided with the announcement of the Alliance For Washington University, a $300 million fund-raising campaign, which helped alleviate the problem of financing the new complex. The original 1928 field house on our Hilltop campus has since been renovated and a recreation gymnasium, an eight-lane, 25-meter swimming pool with diving area, eight racquetball/handball courts, two squash courts, a weight room and locker rooms have been added.

Renovation and construction also has taken place outside with the addition of a new baseball field and several lighted fields for intramural activities. Built more than eight decades ago, the historic Francis Field stadium, site of the 1904 Olympic Games, has been refurbished with a regulation football-soccer field and a synthetic, eight-lane, 400-meter track. Field event areas have been developed within the stadium and adjacent to the playing field.

Other additions include a press box with complete electronic communications systems, improved lighting, a concession stand and restrooms, paved entry with spectator-control fences, and practice field. Also, the university's eight tennis courts have been repainted, with lighting added to four courts.

Harry Kisker, Dean of Student Affairs, said, "The new facilities will enable the university to remain competitive with other major national colleges and universities, who have recently expanded or upgraded their facilities." Universities are "recognizing that today's best high school students are increasingly making their college choices from among comparable academic institutions, for non-academic reasons. The new facilities already have had a significant impact on admissions recruiting and a positive effect on undergraduate morale."

Athletic Director, John Schael looks to a new era of Washington University intercollegiate sports to complement the new facility. The department currently sponsors 16 varsity sports, including basketball, which was reinstated in 1981, and is looking to an athletic future with renewed emphasis. "We are seeking new and attractive opponents; schools with similar academic distinction and athletic direction," said Schael.

The new facilities were named and dedicated November 22, 1985. A three-day celebration featured Howard Cosell, a well-known sports personality for both his professional and collegiate sports coverage, happens to be a "strong advocate" of the NCAA Division III athletic concept, where the University is not permitted to provide athletic scholarships. For the celebration an old Washington University basketball rivalry was renewed with cross-town foe St. Louis University. A friendly game between alumni teams of these universities officially christened the floor. The varsity Bears then opened their season with a game against the Billikens of St. Louis University. It was the first time the teams have played together in 15 years.

Washington University has been selected to be the national headquarters for the 1986 AAU/USA Junior Olympic Games because its superb $13-million athletic complex is among the finest in the nation. These will be the first major games played here since Washington University hosted the World Olympics in 1904.

Schael said: "We didn't have to create an interest for the facility — the interest was clearly there. The improved and expanded athletic facilities will strengthen and advance the athletic and recreational programs of Washington University. The complex will provide the students with unparalleled opportunities for participation at all levels of competition in one of the finest facilities in the country."

Sports Clubs

Fencing club served to promote competitive and recreational fencing within the WU community. The club provides the necessary equipment and training. Three times a year, an undergraduate team of nine men and four women compete against such nationally ranked competitors as Notre Dame and the University of Illinois.

The Frisbee Club is dedicated to bringing happiness to people through disc sports, ultimate frisbee, freestyle, etc. Their big activity in the Spring was the second annual Frisbatum, an opportunity to just lay back and throw discs for an extended period of time.

The Judo Club offered workouts and lesson on Saturday afternoons. Demonstrations of Judo and self-defense techniques are held each semester. The club hosted tournaments and sponsored trips to local tournaments for members. The Judo Club was dedicated to promoting both the sport and philosophy of Judo — "The Gentle Way".

The Lacrosse Club carried a 35-40 man squad and played an eight game schedule, highlighted by the annual WU Lacrosse Invitational.

Orienteering Club showed orienteering as a sport in which you use a map and compass to navigate an unmarked course through an unknown area. You can undertake orienteering as a walk in the woods with a little mental stimulation; as physically demanding, flat out footrace, or anything in between.

Rugby Club said that as a sport, rugby is physically demanding. The slogan "Give Blood, play rugby," is very apropos and seem to underscore the physical intensity of play. Combining the best parts of hockey, soccer, and football, rugby is exciting to watch, fast and fluid. Although winning or losing is but a small aspect of a match, the WU Banshees had a very successful year.

The WU Sports Club Federations was the legislative body that governs the activities of Student Union-funded sports clubs. In addition to allocating funds, the Sports Club Federation helps clubs develop a good sense of planning, lobbies in the interest of sports clubs, and establishes effective operational procedures. The Federation also promoted the concept of sport and sport competition in the spirit of fair play.

The Tae Kwon Do Club promoted competition in this international sport, to be introduced in the 1988 Olympics. The primary purpose of the club, was to provide funds for martial arts tournaments. They provided training in Tae Kwon Do through a certified Black Belt instructor.

The Volleyball Club's main event was a tournament in the Spring. Dedicated to promoting the understanding and appreciation of the game of volleyball, they held weekly practices to sharpen their skills and just relax and have fun.

Women's Soccer Club offers experienced soccer players a chance to improve their skills and inexperienced players and opportunity to learn an exciting and enjoyable game. They competed against local varsity and club teams and developed friendship and teamwork while representing WU in the community.

Sorority Rush

Freshmen had only two days at Wash. U. before the beginning of sorority Rush. Two informal events and four days of formal rush parties constituted the week's activities. Saturday women were encouraged to "Drop-In-Cool-Off" in the Gargoyle where each sorority had a table and representatives present to answer questions.

Formal Rush kicked off to a start with Rainbow Day on Tuesday, when each sorority decorated their room with a specified theme color. Thursday Invitational Parties were also held in the suite rooms.

Saturday afternoon rushees were driven downtown to the Marriott Pavilion Hotel for Outside parties. Preferential Desserts were served on Sunday afternoon at alumni homes by each sorority. Labor Day, Monday, marked the end of formal Rush with the Unity Ceremony involving all six sororities. After the Unity Ceremony girls received their bids and "rushed" up the steps of the Women's Building to their respective new sororities.

This year six sororities participated in formal Rush after the addition of Alpha Chi Omega last spring. A total of 240 women registered for rush, producing one of the largest Women's Panhellenic Associations.

The Washington University chapter of the National Women's Panhellenic Council serves as the governing body of the six sororities on campus. The chapter is comprised of an executive board of elected officers plus a representative and an alternate from each sorority. Through PANHEL, there is communication among sororities.

One responsibility of PANHEL is the planning of sorority rush. PANHEL also sponsors all-Greek and campus-wide philanthropic and social events. This year PANHEL has sponsored a speaker on date rape, Greek Week, Panhel Formal, a country Winter Bash, and study breaks for pledges.

Pledges take part in PANHEL, too. Junior PANHEL is made up of one pledge representative from each sorority. Junior PANHEL sponsored a Halloween costume party at the Gargoyle and a philanthropy.

We are the newest sorority on campus and already have a great reputation. In just semesters we have participated in Thurtene, Derby Days, fraternity mixers, and a philanthropy for the Easter Seals. Washington University's high scholastic standards are maintained by our academic excellence and scholarship. We're very proud of our sisters and their many accomplishments. You will find Alpha Chi's in activities such as Uncle Joe's, athletics, Resident Advising, student government, Student Admissions Committee . . . the list goes on. Although our interests are diverse, we are tied by our bonds of friendship and sisterhood. Alpha Chi means life-long friends and lasting memories of great times.

The Zeta Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi International Fraternity celebrated our second anniversary as a chapter at Washington University this fall. With this graduating class the last of our charter members will be leaving. During the past couple of years we have developed our chapter both in size and strength. We are currently the largest greek organization on campus and we're ranked the ninth best Alpha Phi chapter in the country.

We have spent this past year working hard and having fun. The chapter has participated in various philanthropic activities, the largest being our teeter-totter marathon with Sigma Phi Epsilon to raise money for the Heart Association. The seniors threw a terrific party in the fall and planned Spring Formal. The fall pledges sponsored a fantastic party for the chapter and our friends in December.

For the third year in a row we did our Thurtene Carnival facade with the Theta Xi Fraternity, and for the third year the facade won the Burmeister Cup. Other activities this spring included our annual Set-up Party, spring formal, initiation and senior farewells.

Since Alpha Phi came on this campus on January 23, 1983, we have proven ourselves to be dedicated, hard-working women working towards a common goal of making Alpha Phi the best it can be. Even after our charter members graduate, and for many years to come, we are confident that the women of the Zeta Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Phi will continue to maintain our high ideals and goals.

Gamma Phi Beta is an international sorority with over 115 chapters. To each of the sisters here at Washington University Gamma Phi Beta is a special place.

We have social events for all our members, including fraternity mixers, setup parties, and of course, the Pink Carnation Formal. Our sisters also participate in a variety of philanthropies such as sponsoring an animal at the St. Louis Zoo and an Easter Egg Hunt for underprivileged children. We also participate in Thurtene Carnival, Homecoming, and Greek Week. The sister of Gamma Phi are involved in activities such as Chimes, Hatchet, Lock & Chain, ODK, and varsity sports. In Gamma Phi we have strengthened old friendships and developed new ones. Gamma Phi is — sisterhood.

This past year has been both busy and exciting for the Gamma Iota chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. We started off the 85-86 school year with a successful Rush — it gave us 30 wonderful pledges! The pledges have been busy; some of their activities have included planning a walkout for the chapter and carving pumpkins on Halloween for other Greek groups on campus.

Our goal this year has been to increase visibility through participation and the Kappas have definitely been visible on campus! We won first place overall for our Homecoming float and came in third in the Sigma Nu Relays. We've been busy playing football, volleyball, and racquetball.

Kappas are everywhere at Washington University — we have members in every school. The chapter as a whole is expanding rapidly — from 45 members four years ago to 85 members today. We keep busy with philanthropies, mixers, formals, chapter meetings, and just spending time with our sisters.

Sigma Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity was established at Washington University on June 24, 1928. The first fraternity house was on the 6100 block of Waterman. With the approach of World War II, the chapter became dormant. It was revived in March of '45 with an initial group of eight men. A new house was then purchased on the 6100 block of Pershing Avenue, which was small but gave AEPi a campus headquarters. Later the chapter moved to a new home at 6188 Westminister. They now reside at #9 Fraternity Row.

Sigma chapter is only one cog that has gone into making AEPi one of the largest fraternities. Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity has, from the very beginning participated in social, inter-faith and cultural activities. I.F.C. intramurals, various singing groups, Student Life, and Hillel are only a few of the many representative groups in which the brothers of AEPi are members. Obviously Sigma Chapter, of Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity, has much to be proud of in the work that it has accomplished, to produce leaders in every phase of American endeavor.

On April 1, 1869, James B. Gent, Thomas J. Scott and Shepard Barclay, all graduates of the University of Virginia, founded the Iota Iota Chapter of Beta Theta Pi at WU. "Iota Iota held its first meetings on the Barclay front porch, then met in the Chapel of the University. Later some meetings were surreptitiously held in Chancellor Eliot's own office and in rooms in the Academy." Francis Feild and Francis gymnasium at WU were named in the honor of David R. Francis, one of our founders and an outstanding Beta. At the Beta Theta Pi convention in 1872 the chapter was renamed to Alpha Iota of Beta Theta Pi. This chapter was the first to appear at WU and it is the third oldest of any fraternity west of the Mississippi River. — 1953 Hatchet

Kappa Sigma

K Σ

The Kappa Sigma Fraternity enjoys the status of having no stereotype on campus. Being a society of men that are from many walks of life, we are unified in our desire to achieve and become successful doctors, lawyers, and Indian chiefs. Our achievements include winning the Homecoming float contest five of the past six years, participating in many fulfilling hours of philanthropic and community service, and having a high level of Brother participation in positions of responsibility in IFC and other campus groups. On our social side, we have amazing sorority relations and our parties, such as Thursday night Afterhours and our infamous band soirees, epitomize the "party experience".

Phi Delta Theta

Φ Δ Θ

Phi Delta Theta, association which finds itself older than most of the institutions at which it is located, is currently enjoying its 105th year (1986 makes this their 138th year). First named the W.S. and P. Society, the organization then grew into the Texta Club. This club contained the founders of the present fraternity on this campus with the club's operation similar to that of the fraternity system as it is found today. Receiving inspiration from the Phi Delta Theta chapter at the University of Missouri, the Texta Club applied for and obtained a charter from the National Headquarters on March 28, 1891, becoming the Gamma (4th) chapter of Phi Delta Theta. From its conception, Gamma has held a place of prominence on this campus and

1. "A raising watermelon party" — hop on the ole' bandwagon! — 1930's 2. "Who me?"

among Phi Delta Theta chapters everywhere.

Always rated highly scholastically, athletically, and of course, socially, the Sword and Shield is a token of loyalty to the principles of highest manhood. Brothers wearing the pin this year, as in all past years, are shining examples of fraternity, and Phi's everywhere can be especially proud of them. — From the 1953 Hatchet

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Σ Α Ε

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was established at Washington University on April 30, 1892, when the University was located at 17th and Washington. SAE was the third fraternity to be established at WU and is the second oldest of the fraternities on campus (this is still true in 1986). The fraternity used two rooms in one of the University buildings on 18th Street in its early days. The SAE House, the second fraternity house to be built at WU, was begun in 1924 and completed in 1925. SAE had been founded nationally at the University of Alabama on March 9, 1856. The fraternity thrived at WU while it grew nationally to be the largest social fraternity in membership, and now has 133 chapters located in 45 states.

Sigma Alpha Mu

Σ Α Μ

Sigma Alpha Mu is a diverse group of young men from all over the country. We have formed a tightly knit unit by living and working together, and through the many activities in which we as a group are involved. We were very active in community service as evidenced by our winning the Maurice Chambers Award, which is presented by IFC to the fraternity demonstrating outstanding philanthropic participation. Through intramurals, our pledge program and events such as walk-out and Thurtene we exhibited our exhibited fraternity spirit. These are just a few of the reasons why the brotherhood of Sigma Alpha Mu is so strong.

Brotherhood says it all.

Sigma Chi

Σ Χ

Tau Tau Chapter of Sigma Chi was established at Washington University on May 4, 1903. A group of young men called the Egyptian Club petitioned the National Fraternity and after one year's wait were awarded the charter for this chapter, number 74 in order of establishment. We have had many great men on our roll. For example, Hugh Ferriss, one of the founders of the Quad Show and one of the country's leading architects is a Tau Tau Sig. In 1930 when the Balfour Award for outstanding undergraduate of Sigma Chi in the country was established, it was awarded for the first time to Paul Hageman of our chapter. In 1926 we moved into our present house. Current plans include a complete renovation of the second and third floors. These plans comprise the final stages of a complete renovation of the house which will be finished by 1955, the 100th anniversary of our fraternity. On the 4th of May of this year, 1953, we celebrated the 50th anniversary of our chapter, looking forward to another half century of growth and achievement.

Σ Ν

Sigma Nu, a military fraternity, had its beginning at Virginia Military Institute in 1869. It was then known as the Legion of Honor, from which some of the outward manifestations, such as the badge, were taken, James Frank Hopkins, James McIlvaine Riley, and Greenfield Quarles, moved by idealistic hopes, founded a society which would inculcate honor and mutually benefit its members. In 1884, the first national convention met at Nashville with twelve chapters attending. The fraternity's national organization continued to grow, chartering the Gamma Omicron chapter at WU in 1903.

The brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon have had an active and productive year. For Homecoming, we built a float with the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. In November we bought and distributed Thanksgiving dinners to 300 needy families. The following month, Sig Ep and Alpha Phi participated in a teeter-totter-a-thon, proceeds went to the Heart Association. Most of our time in the spring semester was devoted to work for Thurtene Carnival with the Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The members of Thurtene presented us with trophies for "best facade layout and structure" and "best food booth." On an individual basis, the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon were involved as leaders in many campus organizations including Thurtene, Lock & Chain, Student Union, Encouncil, Varsity Athletics, Campus Y, and Pikers. With 96 gentlemen in our organization, we are the largest fraternity on campus.

We were also able to start and continue several new traditions: Thurtene and the Helium and Tiki Island Festivities. We are proud to be brothers in the bond, experiencing the friendships, challenges and the fun TKE makes available.

Theta Xi

Washington University's Theta Xi fraternity has grown rapidly in the past few years, evidenced by the initiation of 28 new members last fall. With that growth has come expansion as our alumni bought us a second house off-campus. The members have also expanded into all facets of campus life, including the student government, the student newspaper, and the Varsity athletic teams. This expansion hasn't hurt our unity, though: we worked hard to build a Battling Bear house display during Homecoming and produced a skit during the Thrutene Carnival, winning the best production award for an unprecedented third year in a row.

"Founded on St. Patrick's day, 1905, as an engineering school fraternity, Theta Xi was well enough established by 1925 to become one of the charter members of the "row" by purchasing a house on campus. The following year the membership eligibility was extended to include men from all of the branches of WU and we were soon the cosmopolitan fraternity that we are today."

Zeta Beta Tau

ZBT

As Washington University celebrated its Centennial Year in 1953, Alpha Xi Chapter of Zeta Beta Tau celebrated its twentieth anniversary on the campus. In 1922, six local men sent a petition to the Supreme Council of ZBT for a charter as a chapter. In January, 1923, a charter was granted to the group and on February, third, Alpha Xi of Zeta Beta Tau was formally installed. In the past thirty years the fraternity has made great strides in becoming a constructive, as well as social organization on WCU's campus. In 1945, with the aid of the ZBT St. Louis Alumni Club, the fraternity bought its present house located at 7020 Forsyth.

Check it out! signs and banners were painted to publicize the week of events beginning on Tuesday and continuing through Saturday night. Tuesday evening four sororities and five fraternities participated in the annual sing-off. Trophies were given to Pi Beta Phi — 1st, Phi Delta Theta — 2nd, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon — 3rd; while spectators were served refreshments in the swamp. The Women's Building was the scene of the academic social on Wednesday. Selected faculty and representatives from each respective Greek chapter enjoyed champagne punch and snacks as they conversed. Thursday night was a tie night in the Gargoyle. The band Serapis performed and free refreshments were served. Mike Peters, cartoonist and Wash. U. alum., entertained audience with his slides and spontaneous caricatures at the TGIT (Thank Goodness It's Thursday) Party.

The week's festivities concluded Saturday with a philanthropy in the morning, football game in the afternoon and Shipwreck party in the evening. Children from St. Vincents' Childrens Home and Wash. U. greeks enjoyed non-competitive games and lunch followed by a Bears football game. The Shipwreck Party was held on Fraternity Row with either a band or refreshments at each house, with members from each of the greek chapters serving.

The week's events were organized by the Greek Week Committee and support from the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils. A special award was given to the Beta Theta Pi fraternity for "overall spirit" during Greek Week.

The archaeology Department should recruit members of the Sigma Nu fraternity. While digging "The Pit", artifacts from past relays were occasionally found in the mud. Shoes and socks were identified, but no bodies were recovered.

Sororities and fraternities paired off to combine talents in activities such as the Mystery Event, which featured limp carrots and toilet paper rolls. After a day of relays including pit jumping, tug of war, and tequila tugging, the Alpha Chi Omega-Zeta Beta Tau team tallied the most points and were declared winners of the Sigma Nu Relay competition.

Residential Life Center

The Residential Life Center (RLC) and its staff are responsible for improving the quality of life outside of the classroom for Washington University residents. Among their responsibilities are the Head Resident and Resident Advisor training programs, supervision of the student staff, extracurricular activity programming, fraternity affairs, and roommate pairing. Staff members promote social, cultural, educational, religious, and recreational activities, advise individuals and groups of students, and provide access to the diverse counseling and support groups at the University.

Congress
South Forty

The Congress Assembly is a hard working group of South Forty residents who willingly give up their time in order to make the dormitories a better place to live. Their diligence and time are greatly appreciated.

The Congress of the South Forty (CS40) is the legislative body for the university residence halls. The purpose of the Congress is to enhance the social environment of the South Forty and to encourage academic excellence. Congress achieves its objectives by providing a number of diverse services and by funding the majority of programs on the South Forty. The Congress has an operational budget which is derived from an activities fee that is included in each resident's housing charge.

The Congress Assembly is the representative body of the residence halls, with members elected from each hall. It is chaired by an executive board consisting of a Speaker, Vice-Speaker, and Treasurer. In addition to the Assembly, Bilateral Committees work to serve the best interests of the South Forty community.

down the middle of the room.

Do you remember the Swamp — that big grassy area behind the dorms? Well, I finally found out why they call it the Swamp. It rained really hard a couple of weeks ago, and I started hearing these loud yells and laughter coming from that area. I looked out and saw a real sight:

Lee-Liggett

Before World War II, all residents of the Lee and Liggett dormitories were automatically members of the Lee-Liggett Council, all paying the respective dues, and all participating in dormitory activities. During the emergency the men's dormitories were taken over by the military services. When the dormitories were returned to the men of the University, the residents again felt the need for an organization to promote the general welfare of the dorm men, and to encourage their participation in worthwhile campus activities, so the Council was rejuvenated, this time on a voluntary basis. Miss Rose as housemother, helped immeasurably to create a "home away from home" for the men. Her continuing effort, concern for, and cheerfulness toward the men made their college days memorable.

Miss Rose

"The Lee-Liggett dormitories' Thurtene Carnival booth featured volcanoes and ping-pong balls, and bright, colorful shirts for prizes . . ."

“UNCLE BILL”

William H. Danforth has been Chancellor of Washington University since 1971. He remembers his own college years as a time of learning — “realizing how many things in the world linked together.”

If students today seem less active than their counterparts of the 60's and 70's, it is not because they are any less idealistic than former students. College students of every era fall in love and worry about careers, but “each generation must work out its own style and destiny to get its own act together and express its own values in its own way.”

Chancellor Danforth describes today's students as being full of idealism, energy, drive, and hope. He urges students “to take advantage of the wonderful, stimulating community at Washington University by taking the time to get to know the people here — students, faculty, and administrators. Most importantly, remember how it was to be young.”

Excerpts From the 1959 Freshman Bible

Genesis

In the beginning there was no University. When the embryo of Washington U. was conceived, the present campus was considered to be part of the country.

As has been said; in countless Freshman Bibles of the past, Washington University is the length and shadow of five men — Reverend William G. Eliot, Wayman Crow, Robert Somers Brookings, Arthur Holly Compton, and Ethen A.H. Shepley. Needless to say, the university is more. A great university is the length and shadow of generations of devoted men and industrious students. However, the five men named are extremely important figures in the development of Washington University and are worthy of consideration in a short history of the school.

The first of these men, Reverend William Greenleaf Eliot, coordinated and inspired the group of founders of the university. It was Reverend Eliot who laid the academic foundations of the little school, and it was he who taught the first classes in a building on downtown Sixth Street until a new building on Seventeenth Street could be completed. These first classes which met in 1854 were free elementary classes designed to fill the educational gaps left by the undeveloped public school system in the young state of Missouri. So brilliant was Reverend Eliot's leadership and devoted were his labors in building the little university, that his fellow founders insisted, when the charter was secured on Washington's birthday in 1853, that the school be called Eliot Seminary in honor of the great man. One year later, on Washington's birthday in 1854, the corporation held its first meeting. At that meeting, Reverend Eliot suggested that the name be changed to Washington University in honor of the man on whose birthday it was born.

The second of these men, Wayman Crow, was a Missouri state senator at the time of the university's founding, and realizing the great need for a school of higher learning in Missouri, secured without any outside aid, a bill from the state legislature which granted a perpetual charter to the school. This charter exempted all property acquired by the school for instructional or endowment purposes from taxation and, more important, prohibited "sectarian or partisan instruction" as well as partisan or sectarian tests in the selection of faculty or in the admission of students.

The third man named by the "length and shadow" people of past bibles was Robert Somer Brookings. Although his contribution to the university was made forty years after it was founded. Brookings was in a sense, one of the founders of the school, for it was through his efforts that the present site was acquired and the first nine buildings built. Largely through his own beneficence and his astounding ability to enlist the support of many St. Louisans, the financing of this enormous task became possible. By 1905 the buildings were complete and the present campus ready for occupancy.

The fourth man mentioned is the recently retired chancellor of the University, Arthur Holly Compton. Compton was a leader of great foresight and vision — a leader who recognized the importance of Washington University's strategic location and who recognized it as a university worthy of being named among the great universities of the world. During his term as Bridge Chancellor, he greatly increased the endowment funds of the university and strengthened its academic foundations enormously. Furthermore, under his leadership, the university took a greater interest in the activities of the community and invited the community to take a greater part in its own activities. Thus the university, by its own example, reminded its students that college is not only a place to develop personal skills and to attain specialized knowledge, but also it is a place to develop a sense of social responsibility and to acquire the ability to live with and for one's fellow man.

The fifth man is Ethan A.H. Shepley. Under his leadership a university-wide development program has been established. This includes not only the physical plans for academic halls, libraries, laboratories, dormitories, community center, and student union, but also development of the faculty and acceptance of a new policy which recognizes the current situation and future potential.

Such are the lengths and shadows of five great men. But the university is not itself their length and shadow for if it was not an ever growing monument to the great efforts of many men, it would be an insignificant school worthy of note only as a tragic reminder of the efforts exerted at the very beginning. The university is whatever you help to make of it. Therefore, make of it what you want. It is our hope that students here will develop that "practical idealism" exhibited by the five men we have discussed, thus the university is your length and shadow as well as theirs.

Looking into the crystal ball and foretelling future events in say, 1986, would require adding another name to this list, "Uncle Bill". During his term as Chancellor, Wm. Danforth will see peace riots, "hippies", apartheid rallies, tenure issues, and the resurgence of school spirit and the Greek system. But in 1986, he will see the completion of Simon Hall, the Athletic Complex, and the most successful endowment drive in WU history, the Alliance, raising over 400 million dollars. He will contribute not only to the current success of WU, but will help shape its future.

The Art Student

I would not be a medic,
I would not be a dent,
I think that botany is
Not worth a bloomin' cent;
I would not be an engineer,*
I would not study law;
I wear a flowing necktie,
And I draw.

I'm fondest of this still-life,
Yes, I am fond of rest,
I am so fond of antiques,
I love my old clothes best.
I am so fond of modeling,
I am a model man.
My life I've modeled after
A Fine Arts plan.

I call my life bohemian,
For each day when I dine
I eat both cheese and crackers,
And drink a light French wine.
My purse is altogether
The bearest thing I own.
No king I know is happier
Upon his throne.

* The word undergrad was changed to engineer.

NUMBERS

The grade point system at Washington University will present certain problems to the incoming freshmen, but, if it is approached sanely and valiantly, it is easily mastered and applied. Let  $h$  signify the number of units credit offered for a course taken during semester  $L$ . Let a grade of  $A$  equal 3,  $B$  equal 2,  $C$  equal 1, and lower grades equal 0. Let  $h \times F$  signify the product of the number of credits offered for a particular course by the appropriate grade value (3, 2, 1, or 0). It is obvious that the student's grade for semester  $L$  is derived from the formula:

$$\frac{\sum (h_i \times F_i)}{\sum h_i}$$

It is beyond the scope of this Freshman Bible to offer the complete proof of this formula or, for that matter, to describe the application of it. Incorrect, but approximate, grade point averages can be obtained from the Office of Student Records several weeks after grades are turned in.

The Story of General Kuroki

HE wily little Japanese general was found by a newspaper correspondent calmly fishing in a brook near army headquarters while the Russian and Japanese were in the thick of one of the decisive battles of the Russo-Japanese war.

'General', exclaimed the newspaper man, 'you don't seem to be worrying about the battle.'

'No' replied the general, 'this battle was fought two years ago in Tokio'.

General Kuroki knew that battles are seldom won on the day they are fought; they are won years in advance by careful planning, by being prepared against the day of conflict.

So it is with college. The problems and tasks that seem so inconsequential today are preparing us for the battles of tomorrow. The campus is the training camp of life, teaching us to meet successfully situations as they confront us. Showing us the value of tolerance and consideration for others. Instructing us in the art of living peacefully and happily with our fellow men, which, after all is the secret of a complete, successful life.

The LACLEDE Gas Light Company

OLIVE AT ELEVENTH

As for you girls, an important thing to remember is always smile seductively when and if a boy asks you out. Otherwise he will think you don't like him and will most likely stand you up. Now if we have again confused you by the little saying "stand you up" rather than take time for a detailed explanation here merely send a stamped self addressed envelope to Henry Mortimer Shockelbaum, 32 Sunset Ct., Normandy 21, Missouri and he will endeavor to send you a detailed definition by return mail.

If your problem now is where to find dating problems in the form of boys (or girls) you simply report to Dean Cannole (I believe he has changed his name to Dean Kisker, recently from the Office of Student "Activities") and he will be glad to "fix you up."

Now that you are well on your way in a dating career your next step is pinning. This is made easier if you belong to a fraternity or sorority but an old Boy or Girl Scout pin will do. The proper technique for giving a girl (or boy if you girls are the forward type) a pin is to take the pin, fasten it gently to the sleeve of her pinafore and say "will you be mine?" That always does the trick.

(A subject that we have failed to mention in this chapter is now to break a date, but we will leave the intricacies of this sacred little performance to your own ingenuity.)

The Book of Acts

Chapter 1. Dating

By the time you have reached the awe—inspiring status of a Freshman, the time has come for you to begin to date. Now for most of you this word (or action as the case may be) needs no further explanation. For the more naive of you however, we will try to make the word a bit more lucid so that in the future we can speak of "date" without having to go into useless explanations. In this short space we will attempt to set down three definitions of date.

date—(noun) A kept appointment between two people of opposite sexes in which activity is carried on such as drinking, dancing, necking, and "let your conscience be your guide." A sentence for this form of the word would be: I had a date with a Washington U. Freshman last night, and was she ever a pig.

to date—(verb, infinitive) To carry on the aforementioned activity with a certain regularity. A sentence using this form of the word would be: "I used to date quite a bit but that was before I grew my third eye. Now all the girls think I'm staring at them."

date—(noun) A word designating the person of the opposite sex with whom you have your appointment. Sentence: "My date is tall, wealthy, smart, wealthy, handsome, wealthy, sexy, wealthy, sexy, wealthy . . ."

Now that we have completely confused you with our definitions we will go on to say that we will use the second meaning of date most of the time. To further add to the confusion, we will also use the gerund form most often—(dating).

When dating at Washington U. it is necessary to observe a certain Code of Ethics or etiquette. As time goes on you will pick up your own rules as dictated by the crowd you "chum it up with", but still there are a number of things that are universally taboo around Ye Olde Washout Universidad. First, it is not considered good form for a Freshman boy to date a Senior girl. However, the shoe is on the other foot, so to speak, if a Freshman boy wishes to date a Grad student. That is considered perfectly all right because if anyone wishes to reach that far out of his class he is a little strange so it won't make much difference anyway. Another little hint for you boys is that when a father tells you to have his daughter home by one o'clock he is just kidding and it's up to you to see that she stays out until about 3:00 A.M., lest the father say you can't take a joke.

Chapter 2. Dress

Every school at Washington U. has its own standards of dress dictated by convention. Here are a few of them:

Engineers—Dirty khakis and white bucks, slide rule at side of belt, brown suede jacket not less than three years old, and NO SHAVING. (This is to enable you Freshmen with slow growing beards to catch up with upperclassmen in time for Engineers Day.)

Art Students—Dirty fingernails, drab olive paint on nose, old smock, out-grown bermuda shorts, and a paint box.

Business Students—Gray flannels, brown or tan sport jacket, one statistic book, brown and white saddle oxfords.

Physical Education Majors—Tennis or track shoes, shorts, hairy chests (in the case of boys) tennis racquet in season, always in company of Dr. Drew or Mr. Burrus.

Liberal Arts Students—Anything goes as long as you remain in the Quad Shop at least seven hours a day.

Pre-Law—Brief case, Eastern clothes, aesthetic look, glasses.

Pre-Medical—Knife in sheath at belt, blood on shoes, satchel containing eye of newt, toe of frog, wool of bat, tongue of dog.

Chapter 3. Classroom Behavior

Keep your teacher on his toes. If he is falling asleep munch on a carrot. When he makes an error, shout out, "Bull!" Smoke cigarettes if you have to but cigars make a much better stench. In the case of girls, make sure you have a front seat, pull your skirt up right above the knees, and swing your legs and look as nonchalant as possible when his beady little eyes begin penetrating you. Always remember, keep him guessing; keep him awake; keep him on his toes! Remember it's your tuition that's keeping him from starvation— or almost.

Chapter 5. The Angle Rule

As stated in the Student Conduct Code, Section 4, "Any non-male student discovered anywhere on the property of the university in such a position that the angle between that student's spine and the earth's surface is less than 45° will be prosecuted according to the Student Penal Code, Section 8, which states that all students of the proper sex found in such a position will be prosecuted. Take it from us as we sit in one corner of a dark hole called the Student Guard House in the basement of Brookings writing this section of your Bible. Take it from the voice of experience. "Crime doesn't pay."

Our thanks for the Freshman Bible contributed by Mr. Gil E. Eliot.

How to Pass an Exam

1. Go into the room five minutes late. Speak to everybody, especially the girls.
2. Take a seat right under the Prof.'s eyes. This is always a trump card.
3. After you get your paper, turn it over and sharpen a pencil for five minutes.
4. Read the questions. Allow about half an hour for this.
5. Look around the room and smile.
6. Go up and ask the Prof. about some minor details.
7. If you know anything, put it down. This is not really essential, but hurts nothing.
8. Be sure to write at a furious pace, if you write at all. Mutter words of disapproval occasionally.
9. Be sure not to read the paper over. This betrays lack of confidence.
10. Walk up to the Professor and give your book. Compliment him on such a fair examination and ask when he can come out to dinner.
11. When outside, whistle the long meter doxology audibly.
12. Don't worry.

W.I.L.D. 32
Washington's Birthday 45

Wow! Yes, that's about all I can say — Wow! It's been three years since I was appointed editor of Hatchet. I still remember my freshman year when I found out about my new job. I had filled out the application and completed the interview process a few days earlier (sort of like applying to WU, but not quite as bad). I was in my room reading Physics 117 (that's Engineers' jargon for sleeping), when Sara Sugerman, the 1983 advisor, phoned to inform me I'd been chosen as the 1984 Editor-in-chief. I was thrilled and of course, accepted on the spot! (Well, we are all entitled to our mistakes.) I later found out that the staff was undergoing a rebuilding period, and we, the 1984 staff, were the foundation. We had a small, but concrete staff, a small concrete office and a large, 148 page, abstract book to produce! But hard work and miracles do happen and thus was born the 1984 Hatchet.

If the '84 was the foundation, then I guess you could call the '85 the first floor. We added a new wing, the calendar section, increased the staff, to serve you better, received a new advisor, Greg Geisen, and enlarged the divisions, to make a 240 page "pictographical essay of the WU community", better known as the Hatchet. Although the '85 took a big step by including all of the classes, the '86 is leaping. The amendment which passed in the Fall of 1985 made it possible for everyone to receive a 1986 yearbook. By including the yearbook in the Student Activity Fee, we were able to widen the spine to include 300 pages, bring the senior portraits into living color, use more creative layouts, and still reduce the price of the book by half.

Editing the Hatchet has been a tremendous challenge — an experience I will never forget. I have had the chance to work with many faculty, administrators, students, and staff from other schools (in addition to Engineering) and other organizations. I thank you all. Without your enthusiasm and contributions the Hatchet would never have made it past the ground floor. However, it is to the student body that I leave the experiences and responsibilities of the Hatchet tradition.

For when finals are over we will disperse and go our separate ways, and if we think of the last year, it is only in quick remembrances of fleeting moments. Some of us will be returning for another nine months; others may return for a week's visit with friends we've left behind; some of us will never return. It may have been a good year or a bad, a long year or a short, but either way we have learned much, and there are things we will never take for granted again. Some day we will look back and remember the friends we had here, the good times, the laughter that was mixed with the work. Now we are just glad to go, if only for three months.

But this has been a year of our lives, and we will remember.*
